Hello,

This portfolio presents a selection of projects specifically related to comics. To see my work in design and web, click here.

Trained in comics, I developed a practice mixing illustration, narration, graphic design, and teaching. I recently completed a thesis in UI design, strengthening my approach to tools, images, and creative processes.

Bonne lecture!

Safran et la pyrite

Scientific popularization

2023

This 4 pages comic was co-written with Gwenn Duval, the main character, a french-canadian oceanographer. It serves several purposes.

Its primary aim is first educational. Comics about geochemistry are rare, as the subject tends to remain largely invisible in popular media. By using metaphors it makes it possible to introduce and explain a geochemical concept the formation of pyrite.

The reader follow the characters from observing a phenomenon outdoors to investigating it in the laboratory (here, the kitchen), ending with a conclusion that is typical of research itself: inquiry never truly ends.

A second goal of this comic is to support Rimouski's annual "Filles en Science" event, which encourages young girls to engage with science. By featuring a female protagonist, the project underscores its contemporary relevance.

Hé Safran, qu'est-ce que tu cherches dans ce trou ?

Tu trouves quelque chose ?

Pourquoi ça t'intéresse ? Je ne suis qu'un chien, je ne pourrais rien trouver de bien intéressant pour toi.

Oh ! Tu sais, c'est un chien qui a trouvé les grottes de Lascaux ! Tu n'es pas à l'abri de faire une découverte!

Et bien, au fond de mon trou il y a du sable noir, mais je ne vois rien d'autre.

Parfois, pour trouver, il faut savoir ce qu'on cherche, sinon on passe à côté. C'est à ça que sert la science! Montre-moi ce qu'il y a dans ce trou.

Ok mais ne me juge pas, je n'ai pas terminé.

Et bien, mon cher Safran, regarde ce morceau un peu brillant, je crois que tu as trouvé de la pyrite. Ça n'est pas de l'or et on ne pourrait pas le vendre bien cher, mais c'est un morceau d'histoire que tu nous ramènes là.

Des hommes préhistoriques l'ont enterré ?

Non ! Ce n'est pas qu'une histoire d'humains que ce morceau de pyrite peut nous raconter, mais l'histoire de la planète elle-même.

La planète, c'est un peu comme un gros gâteau, c'est le mélange des ingrédients, le temps de cuisson et le brassage qui a fait de la Terre ce qu'elle est aujourd'hui. Viens, je t'emmène en cuisine !

Si la planète est une grosse grosse boule de gâteau, le sol qu'on a sous nos pieds, et le sable sur la plage, c'est un peu comme le glaçage. On va prendre une part pour que je puisse t'expliquer d'où vient ta pyrite !

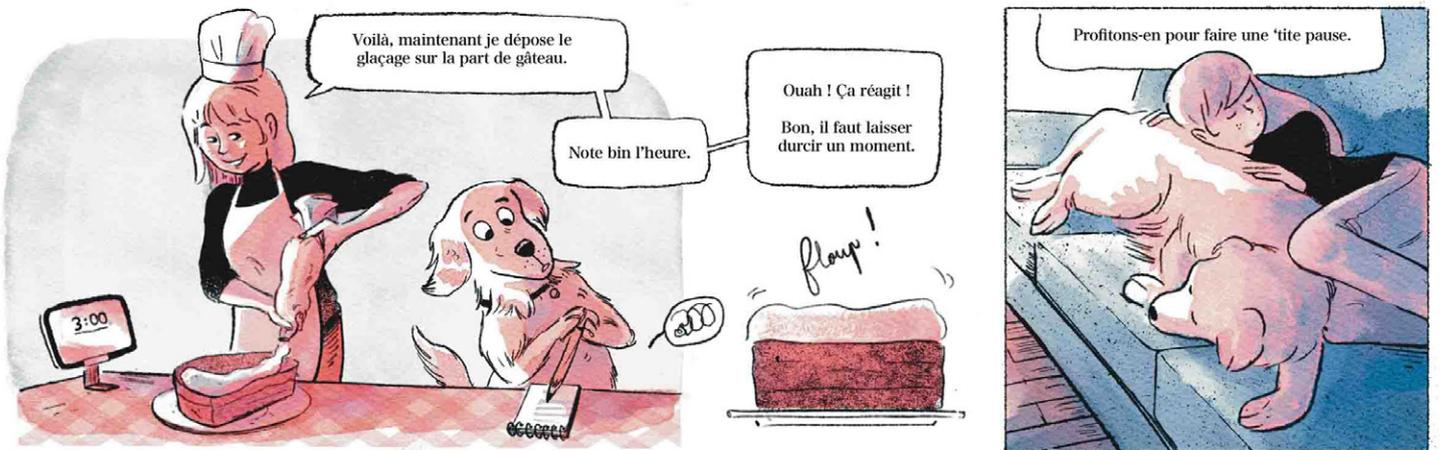

Ça, c'est toute une part de gâteau.

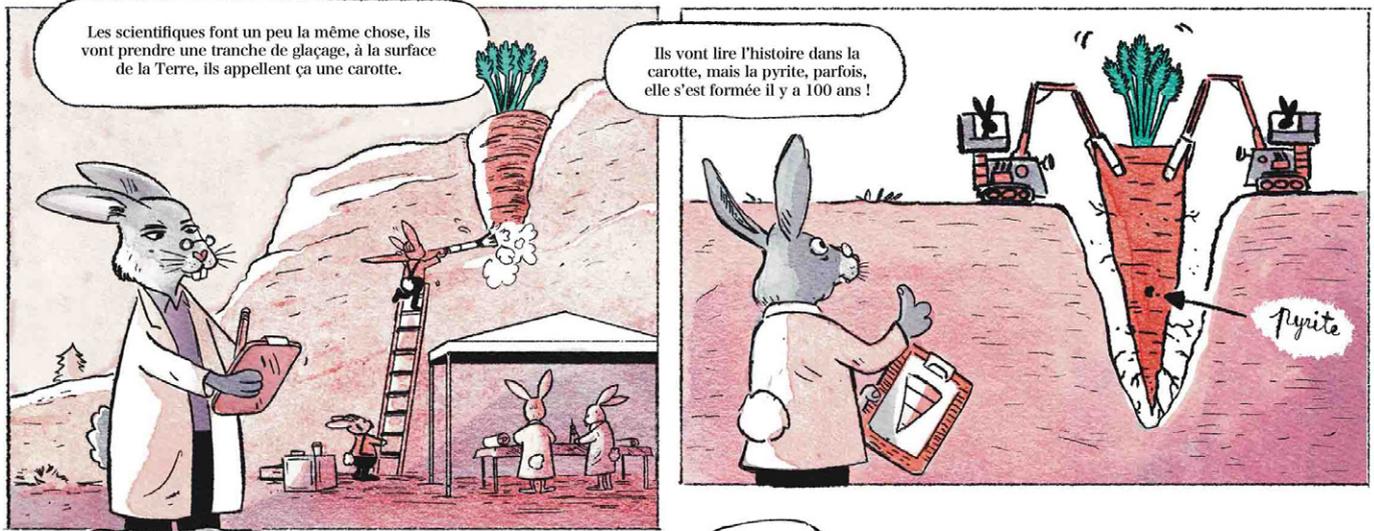

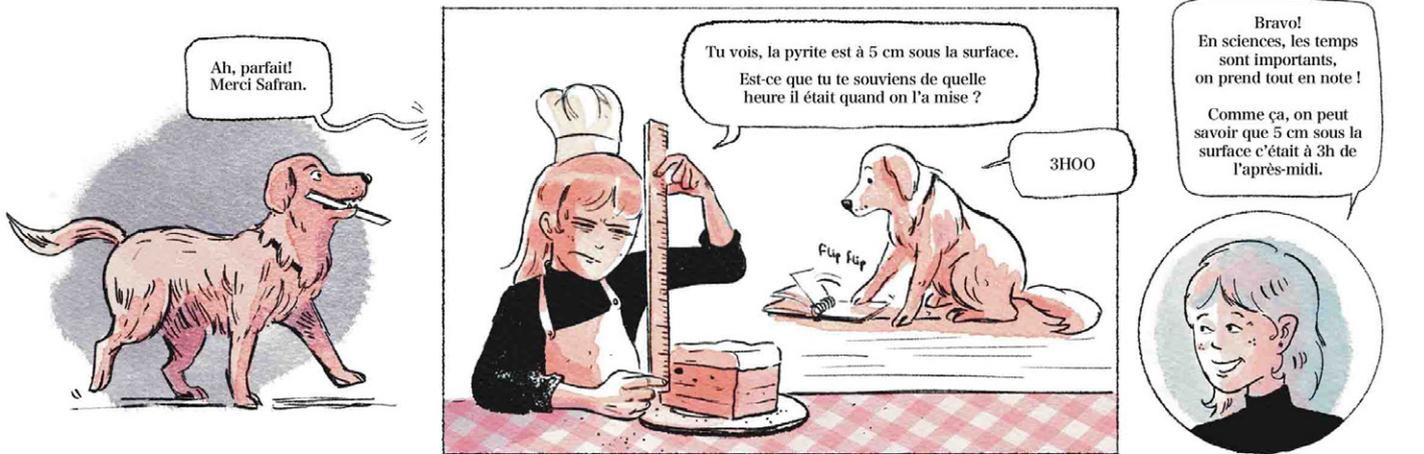

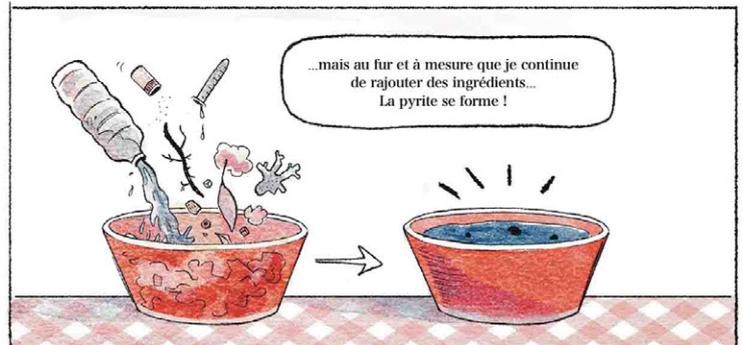

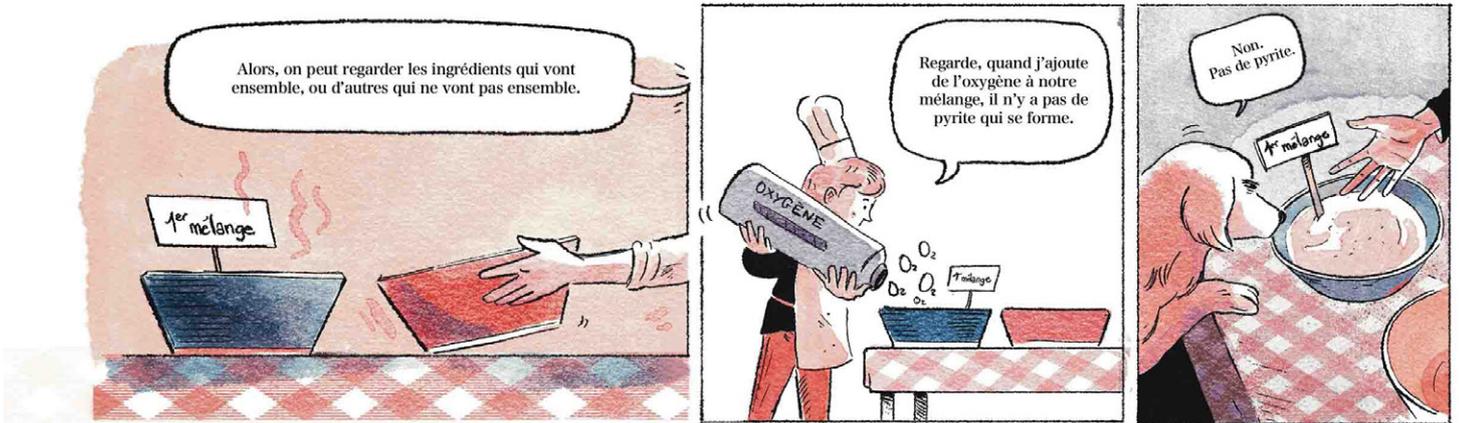

Attention ! Je ne vais parler que du glaçage, car il y a déjà beaucoup d'ingrédients à incorporer dans la recette.

Pour former le sol, il y a eu des mélanges et des réactions chimiques.

Ok. Le glaçage.

Comic - Social awareness

Les Handikapables

Social project

2022

Created in collaboration with the association Les Handikapables, this series of eight short comics raises awareness about the lack of accessibility surrounding illness and disability.

Each strip focuses on a different topic, from “hidden” illnesses such as cancer or trisomy, to blindness, discrimination, aging, health privacy, and medical communication. The content was co-created to be both accurate and engaging, with a cartoonish style, deliberately varied text sizes, high-contrast colors, and a pinch of dark humor.

Aimed at healthcare professionals in Brussels, the project was produced for this exhibition. It responds directly to gaps in public awareness and the technical support for people with disabilities.

Script, illustrations and character research

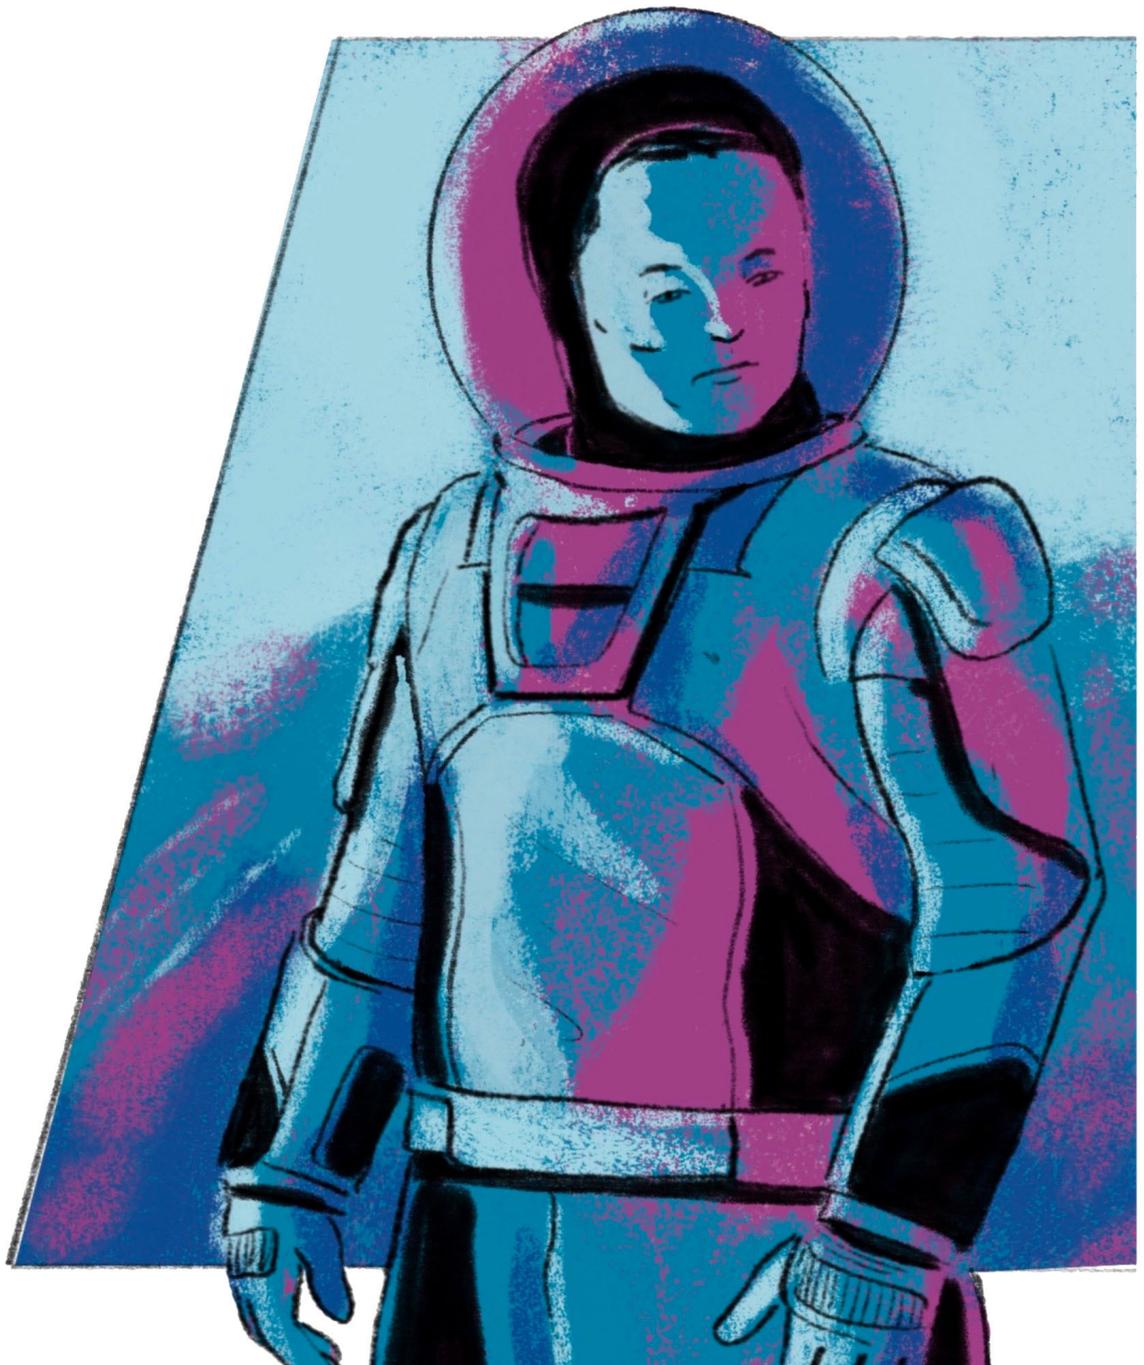

2022-2024

Based on real events, this comic was developed for a publisher but was ultimately discontinued due to a series of events.

During this time, I completed an 82-page first draft and carried out detailed character research.

Comic - Illustration

Since 2018

This project is a comic I hope to complete in the coming years. In the meantime, I developed a series reflecting my vision, and that of many others, on our technological dependence.

Voyager 1

Comic - Illustration

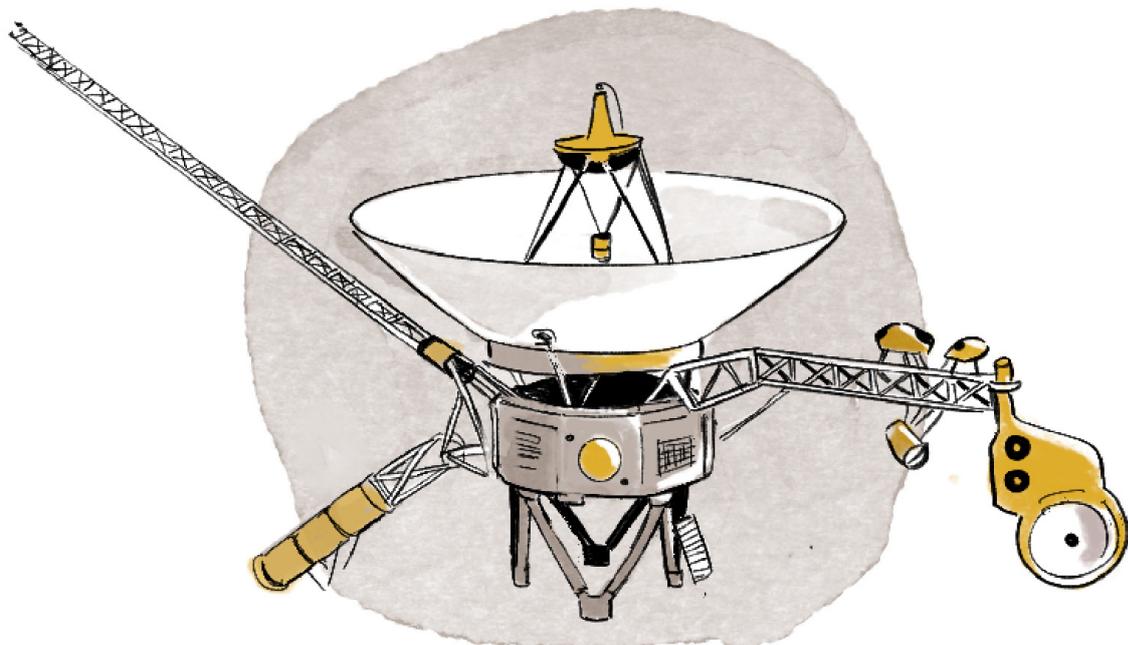

2024

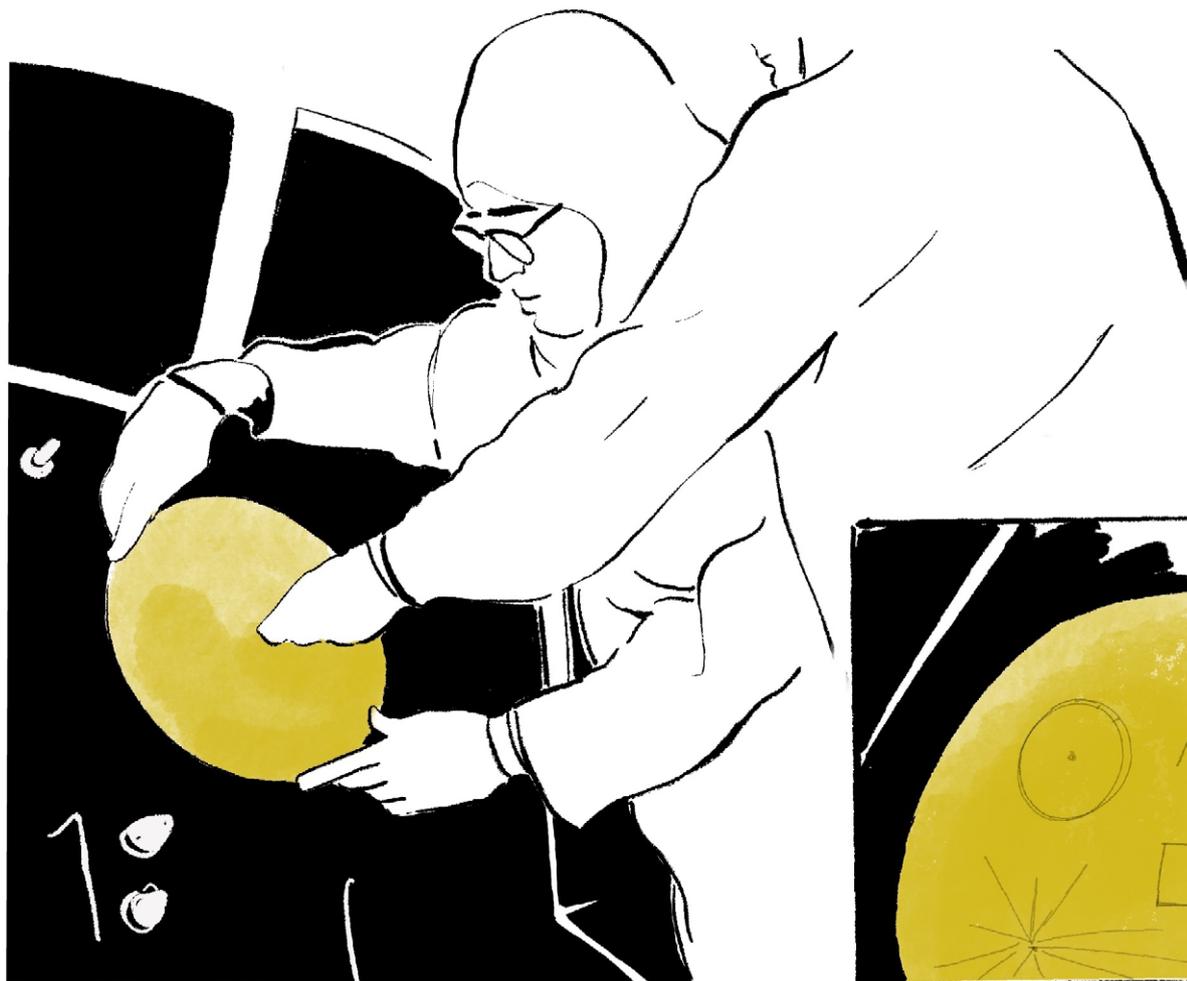

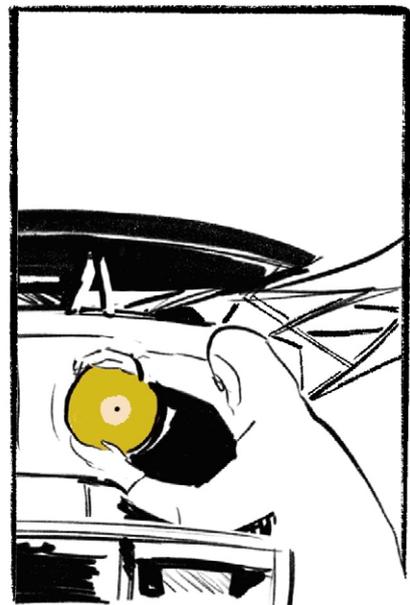

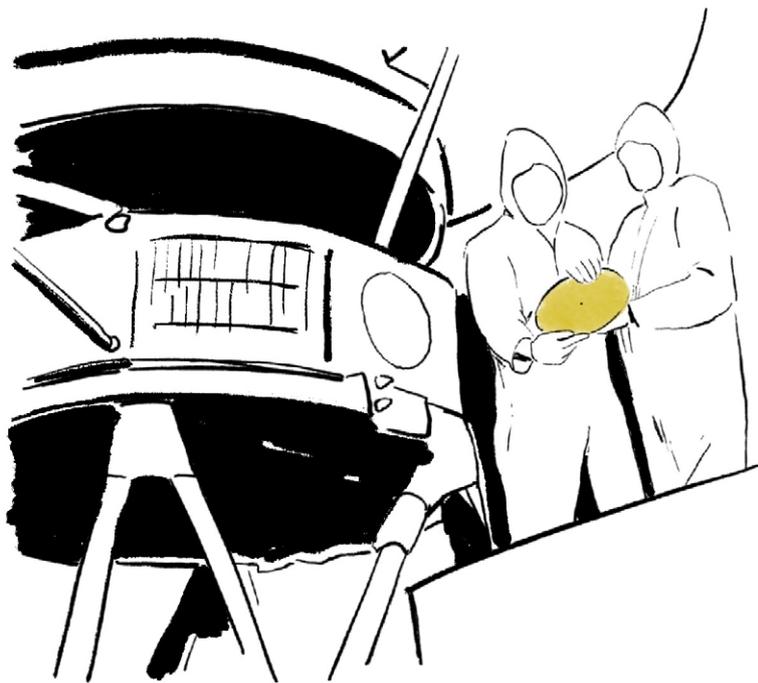

Inspired by NASA's 1977 mission, this graphic novel reimagines the Voyager story through the probe itself, turning it into a sentient protagonist. The work explores the boundary between machine and being, using visual storytelling to express emotion and trauma while reflecting on humanity, technology, and the cosmos.

Planned for 2027 to coincide with NASA's 50th anniversary of the mission, the project seeks to bring Voyager into popular imagination and highlight the ambition of the mission.

It combines experimental illustration techniques, scientific facts, design to create an immersive and reflective experience for readers.
